The Mountaineer is looking for one or more energetic community-minded reporters with a passion for writing accurate and engaging stories.

Community happenings keep our small newsroom very busy. We pride ourselves on publishing a comprehensive newspaper every week, including breaking news, in-depth stories and human interest features. Regular assignments include agriculture, school, court, sports, industry, environment, entertainment and municipal government. Reporters who demonstrate positive attitude and competence will find opportunity to expand their writing skills and pursue a variety of stories.
